+ Thoughts for Your Consideration

The scriptures today celebrate the blessings which come to those who show hospitality and share food and resources with others. In a world which produces enough food for everyone, one in seven people suffer from food insecurity. Clearly, some new level of hospitality is called for on a global level. In a certain sense the scriptures remind us of the need to have a perspective that is bigger than ourselves and our family and our own group or tribe. To use the imagery of the second reading from the letter of the Romans, we are baptized into something bigger than ourselves and our family and our friends.

+Quote

In a global culture driven by excessive individualism, our tradition proclaims that the person is not only sacred but also social. The Catholic tradition teaches that human beings grow and achieve fulfillment in community.
